“ I love it when I see my client's remodeled or new space having a significant & positive impact on how they live day to day & spend time with family and friends. It is exciting & rewarding to create & live in a space that was designed & built just for you. **”

Steven's passion for design began with a 7th grade drafting class. A few years later, he began working for a custom home builder, picking up trash and digging ditches. As his skills developed he became a journeyman carpenter and obtained his Contractor's License in 1995. Steven continued his journey at U.C Berkeley where he studied design and architecture. After graduation and a decade of residential remodeling in the San Francisco Bay area, he moved to San Diego to join Marrokal Design & Remodeling.

"I welcomed the opportunity to work with one of the top design-build firms in the country and to be able to focus on high-level design and service... I've been with Marrokal since 2005 and still meet each day with a passion to improve my clients' lives through good design and a great remodeling experience."

Remodeling is a complex process with many variables, and Steven acts as the client's advocate from beginning to end. Having designed and built hundreds of projects, he understands the gravity of being trusted with people's homes and significant investment levels. While helping to define goals, create options and maximize value and efficiency, he is often also able to anticipate and mitigate challenges before they arise. Working with Marrokal's team – there is always a solution.

Turn Your Dreams Into Reality.

“ Steven was able to take everything that I disliked about the house, eliminating those flaws and designing our dream home. He came up with a design that blew us away. With a little dose of reality and a few revisions we came up with the plans for our remodel. There were times we felt overwhelmed, but Steven would step in and alleviate our worries. ”

“ The reason we chose to work with Marrokal Construction was entirely due to the relationship we created with Steve Mark. Mr. Mark dedicated a tremendous amount of time in creating an absolutely beautiful kitchen design, and ensuring that the entire process was completed with much attention, detail, creativity, and quality sub-contractors and service. He is an asset to your organization and we would certainly work with him again. ”

Education continues to be a top priority for Steven having obtained certifications in Construction Management, CGBP (Certified Green Building Professional) and CAPS (Certified Aging in Place Specialist). Through continual reading and annual conferences he not only stays current with the latest building products, design trends and techniques; but leads the way, with many of his projects being published, selected for design tours and winning local and national awards.

Think. Create. Design. Enjoy.

“I take a lot of pride in delivering the whole experience to my clients. Most refer me to others and many call back later with their next project, I am blessed to love what I do.”
